Lennart from Germany:

“It has felt so good to be a part of the Centenary Heights State High School community – a real school – felt like a real part of the school. What I will remember most of my experience in Toowoomba is the people from this school. To be honest the people here were the highlight of my whole time in Australia. Before I would never have thought it would have been like this. My expectations were exceeded – true friendships have been formed, so much more than what I expected – genuine, meaningful, life-long friendships. The students here are so open to people from other countries, it is such a multicultural school.”
Eva from China:

“I came to Centenary Heights State High School, which is located in Toowoomba in 2012. If you never heard a place in Australia called ‘Toowoomba’, I wouldn’t be surprised, because...it is a small town. But don’t get me wrong just yet. If you ask me what is the aspect I love the most of studying in this school, I would say it’s the great teacher support and additionally the quietness of the town. The great teacher support ensures your best study opportunity and you know there is always someone who is willing to help you when you need it. And being in a small town gives you chance to get settle down and get in a study mode without many distractions as you would experience in big cities, which made it the perfect combination.”
Yuto from Japan:

“What I learned from the days in Australia is something will last for rest of my life. I sometimes look back at the pictures taken in Australia, and then I miss the people I met and the shiny days in the beautiful country. Since I came back to Japan, I feel a little strange. The reason why is because I feel like I have two homes where I belong to. Who made my second home were my host mother, and her two little girls. I felt welcomed and loved. Not as a guest, but a family member. That is why my most wonderful memories were always with the family. We travelled to a beach. We went camping and fishing. We went out for breakfast or dinner. We watched many films. We enjoyed the time as a family. We built a precious relationship. It was a big challenge to study in a foreign country. It was hard to decide to go. However, I can assert that the decision was right and I am proud of my courage to open a new door. I appreciate everyone and everything around the experiences in Australia.”
